CHSS co-op program a winner

by C.L.Marriott

Madoc -- Centre Hastings Secondary School (CHSS) teacher Gary Allen, head of guidance, spoke to the School Council on Feb. 25- about the co-op program. Allen said, "we have lost of winners with co-op education ... Most students love it."

love it."

The program is reserved for senior students. Last term. 50 students chose four co-op credits, five students three credits, five students two credits and 6 students one credit. The reason for the multiple credits is transportation and the working day, he explained. "We have many students working in Tweed and Eldotado, who we need to get back and forth."

These students are involved with local employces such as museum curators, army, reserves, funeral directors, auto mechanics, OPP, retail sales, varied secretarial work, auto body shops, florists, small engine repairs, and schools such as Madoc Public, SH Connor, THSS and CHSS.

Students must apply a year ahead, so the school has time to place the students. "We try to hook up co-op placements with students' future plans," says Allen. Students begin with an interview where they are screened and are told the guidelines they must follow. Students are responsible to get a teacher's reference.

"We try to keep students away from family businesses and away from Madoc if possible. Although whereverthere is a rule there is a waiver," says Allen. Allen continued, there is no monetary portion but there is a lot of learning. Many students end up with summer or full time jobs.

The school has a central registry of employers and we use ads in the papers, says principal Jan Hay. Fi-Continued on page 20

Program hopes to make mature drivers safer

by W. Brice McVicar

John Thibault wants to help make the roads you drive on safer. Thibault, and his Thibault, and his wife Eveline, are teaching the collision prevention course in Madoc for mature drivers to help them renew their driving skills.

"We're not teaching these people how to drive." Thibault said, "we're simply teaching them how to deal with the physical changes for their betterment"

It's common knowledge that as people age their senses may suffer. Learning to drive with decreased sight, hearing and reflexes is something aging drivers should do to make hemselves feel safer on the road

Thibault knows that many older drivers could casily be offended by someone telling them they need their skills worked on but said once their mistakes are pointed out to them they may realize they do need to take the course.

Older drivers must be made aware of air bags and their proper use, medications they may be taking when they're driving and alcohol.

"We've had people who are defensive and say they've been driving for forty years and don't need help but after the course they say 'I did not realize that I was missing that,' said Thibault, "We seepeople making mistake sandit's easy for us to pick out and then you've got to realize that we make those mistakes and people see us making Jhen."

The course, which runs for six hours, costs $45 per person and features everything from self evaluation to a test in which the student looks at a photo with numbers scattered across it and must fouch as many as possible before the instructor counts from one to ten.

"The majority of collisions for mature drivers is because they don't yield for right of way. They don't seethe stop signs, "Thibaultsaid. The second most common cause for collisions is* left hand turns.

"What we hope is that we're making safe drivers who are aware of their surroundings," Thibault said.

Madoc Township Council

Madoc Township Conneilheldaregularcouncil meeting on March 2 at 12 noon, present were Reeve G. Reid, Deputy Reeve R. Sager, Councillors'G. Burris, L. McCoy, and R. Robinson, Also present was Tom Bruce. Road Superintendent.

The meeting was called to order at noon by the Reeve.

It was moved by Robinson and seconded by McCoy that the minutes of the February meeting be adopted as circulated. Carried.

Mr. Hubert Hannah attended council to advise that his problem with interference on his television was persisting and that there was only contact with TAS to this date. He had not read the contents of the correspondence yet as he just received it as he entered the meeting.

The Road Superintendent attended council to discuss Roads Départment activities and future needs. He mentioned that a hopper sander is currently surplus since we longer have a truck upon which to mountil. The Reeve_commented_that, should council wish to purchase an additional truck, it may be prudent to attend the County equipment sale but it would not necessarily be a good idea to self our current truck at the sale since that may then force the Township to purchase an additional vehicle.

Burris moved and Sager seconded that the surplus hopper sander owned by the Township of Madoc be placed in the equipment sale being field by the county of Hastings. Carried. The Road Superintendent suggested that when council does their budget deliberations this year, they should consider a program of ditching as part of the construction budget since the control of water saves maintenance time and cost better and provides better roadways. Mr. Bruce presented to council a proposal for a contract snowplow route which would be more effective for our purposes and more viable for a contract operator. An adjust-ment to the existing plow routes would allow the municipal forces to maintain the remainder of the Township toads.

Council retired to the municipal-recreation hall with Mr. Frank Pinder and Mr. Manny Goetz to review the plans for the proposed reconstruction of highway

Madoc. Members were permitted to ask questions of the two gentlemen with re-may be required to haul material from local gravel pits to the jobsite. Mr. Pinder replied that the existing policy was underreview and policy was underreview and that was the reason the Min-istry has yet to respond to council's correspondence in this regard. Mr. Goetz indicated that there were several areas where the ver-tical profiles of the high way would be changed. He also provided an overview of the proposed changes in the Village of Eldorado in-tended to alleviate some of the water problems that are currently a problem in this area. Mr. Goetz, also advised there would be some rehabilitation of the existing Keller's Bridge in-volved in the reconstruction of the highway. Mr Pinder and Mr. Goetz were most helpful in explaining the scope of the project but indicated that the funding had not yet been approved for 1998 construction. The Reeve thanked the two gentlemen on behalf of council for their presentation and council returned to cham-

ROOM FOR RANT

You know what I'm sick of hearing? I'm sick and tired of listening to the radio or watching television or reading newspapers and being informed of yet an-other sexual child abuse case. What's with this? How sick can a person be? So, here we are in a society where these twisted individuals commit their crimes, go to a place like Warkworth Penitentiary to receive "counselling and rehabilitation" and then are released back into society Now, I'm not completely sure what the statistics are on reoffending and all of this but I do know that these people should not be al-lowed to go back into soci-

Another big discussion with these released sex offenders is whether or not we, the public, should be made aware they are living in our neighbourhoods. Yes, we certainly should know if these monsters are in the community. I'm not sure about you, but I want to know if it's alright for my kids to play outside. As for you bleeding hearts that say they should be allowed their privacy let's see how you feel when your child is their

What kind of a person would get a four or five year old to fondle their geniengage in oral sex with them? Are you cringing? Just those words alone are enough to send shudders through my body. How does it start? Is it a cycle like so many believe? You're abused, you become an abuser? Or is it simply a chemical imbalance in the brain?

Is it just me or does it seem a few years back a few people came out to re-port they had been abused and they opened the flood-gates for the rest of society? Everyday we are shown more and more sexual offenders who offended back in the 60's. Obviously this isn't something that is going to go away. We have to take a hard, long, critical look at this country's treatment of offenders and ask if we're doing enough. I vote for castration.

Madoc Community Policing

The Madoc Detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police is looking for volunteers from the Municivolunteers from the Municipality of Centre Hastings, Madoc Township and Tudor Township to join in a Community Policing Project.

If you have skills in research or analytical skills or if you just have a little free time to give, please consider this opportunity to become involved in the policing of your community. Community Policing applications can be picked up at the Madoc O.P.P. Detachment, Monday to Friday between 8 a.m. to 4

All applications will be considered and kept on file for future reference.

Inquiries should be directed to Sgt. Jeff Brooks, Madoc O.P.P., Box 490, RR#2 Madoc, Ontario.

Foodgrains Bank reaching out to help poor countries

Ron Kraemer, a semi-retired farmer is sending his heart to North Korea--one bushel at a time!

This past summer Kraemer took part in a program to support Winnipegpased Canadian Foodgrains Bank Through his local church he devoted his time and money to a worthy cause-growing a 23-acre field of soybeans.

What makes these 23 acres any different from the other two million acres of soybeans grown in Ontario this past summer? The profits from this field are going directly to feed needy peo ple in poorer countries such as North Korea.

We've been blessed with a lot of things in this country," says Kraemer wholives near Mitchell, Ont. This is part of our Christian response to the needs of $12,000, for a total of $60,000 with government support. Once it's converted to a commodity that hungry people require such as wheat, corn or rice, the food is shipped to developing countries. From there, a local church agency such as the Mennonite Central Committee handles the distribution.

It's estimated that a me dium-sized project such as Kraemer's will feed approximately 2,600 people for six months.

Canadian Foodgrains Bank project to work, the whole community has to pitch in. Farmers donate their time and equipment, city folk donate mone and manual labour. Young People help pick rocks and industry donates seed, fertilizer and weed control prod-

"This is a grass roots movement that is making an protection company Cyana-mid donated for weed control on Foodgrains sites

It's a worthy movement that is catching on. In 1993 there were 35 projects in Ontario. This past summer there were 120 sites grow-ing food destined for developing countries. That translates to as much as $800,000 worth of food.

As well as benefitting the developing world, Kraemer also sees a benefit in getting city people out on the farm. His country church, Thamesview United, near Fullerton, partnered with Main Street United in Mitchell. The country church supplied the farmers and their expertise. The town church supplied the money for everything that wasn't donated.

"It's a real education for the city folk," says Kraemer, who saw a lot of them come out on harvest They get to see a lot of the different machinery

No special treatment for Quebec

In the Calgary Declaration, the nine premiers showed they recognized the need to reach out Quebecers by describing themasa "unique" society. Further, they agreed to consult with and seek guidance from the public on this thorny

Subsequently, when the Ontario government sent us the leaflet "Ontario Speaks," it appeared to request that support Quebec's uniqueness or distinctiveness or whatever we want to call it.

However, a further question seemed to be a request to agree that Quebec should have the same powers as other provinces. I believe most people would say, "on the one hand Quebec is different, but on the other it is the same.

What kind of double-talk is that?

the same powers as other provinces.

Look at it this way. Any country or any area for that matter functions socially, culturally, economically and politically. Thus we can say to Quebecers: "We, in the rest of Canada, agree that French-Canadians are distinct socially and culturally. We readily agree that French-Canadian distinctiveness should be written into the Constitution. Some may consider that suggestion merely playing with words. Others will, I hope, view it as having some value in recreating the kind of atmosphere and the way of thinking which existed when the Fathers of Confederation reached agreements in 1867 which led to Canada becoming a respected middle power in the globally-oriented world of today.

the street name be shown followed by the number on mail. This appears back-ward and the 911 coordinator has contacted Canada Post to attempt to sort this situation out. April 29, 1998 will be the day the system first goes into use. Pack-ages will be going out to ratepayers either through inserts in the tax bill, mailings available through the 911 coordinators office or other communication systems - ie, radio.

OPP Report

Springbrook- A Sweet Road, Rawdon Township resident returned home on Feb. 26 to find a truck pulling out of their driveway. The back door to the residence was found to be open. Nothing appeared to have been taken. The homeowner suspects the presence of their Rottweiler inside the residence may have scared off the suspects. The truck is described as a smaller size black pickup truck with a cap.

Moira Lake- A Ballam Lane cottage was broken into for the second time on Feb 26. The only property taken this time was a larger TV than was taken the first time. The owner suspects the first TV was not usable and the same suspects returned for the second set.

Combatting youth crime objective of Rebound

orthumberland (RYSN) is looking for applicants for youth and volunteers, including those in the Campbell ford

RYSN is a new non-profit organization that offers programming and supportive services for youth (ages 12 17) and families

There has been considerable media focus on the serious concerns of government. families and communities regarding youth crime and youth behaviour in recent ears. Campbellforditself is considered a fairly fertile area for youth criminal ac tivity

Concerned with the in creasing severity of youth crime, compared to even five years ago, RYSN is attempting to address these anxieties by offering 10-week sessions for youth, with two parent sessions scheduled. The purpose is to reach youth and affect their outlook on life before their behaviour

The sessions are to focus on social, behaviourial and crime prevention training with different weekly topics such as communications, goals, decision-making, re-spect for self and others, teamwork, the justice system and conflict resolution.

The first volunteer training session is set for March

Program sessions are offered one evening per week at high schools throughout the county. High school ad-Cobourg and Campbellford have been very supportive of RYSN and are anxious for programming to start. The first program session is planned later this spring. The location will depend upon the number of youth and volunteers available in that area, Port Hope to Campbellford. The Rebound program curriculum was eloped by Samia OPP and will be expanded to include more parent sessions. The object is to open offices in high schools to provide an on-site social service.

Referrals come from schools, police, courts, probation and parole, families and Social Service agencies. Youth may be referred to RYSN by the police or courts as an option or diversion from the traditional justice system, providing it is a first

The head office is located in the County Court Building in Cobourg. Funding has been provided by a United Way Ventures Grant, sérvice clubs including the Campbellford Rotary and the Cobourg Knights of Columbus, private sponsors government grants and

Revenge is sweet for Rebels, Raiders no match in finals

By Rolly Ethier

Intimidation used to play a big role in the success of the Napanee Raiders back in their glory years. Not anymore!

Coach Tom Tanner's Campbellford Rebels have reversed that scenario and as a result have not only swept the first three games of the Empire Junior Hockey League championship round

but they've completely de-moralized the Raiders in the

If the Raiders' strategy was to neutralize Rebel scoring threats Kevin Larmer, Travis Turner and a few others with goon tactics, it has failed miserably. Not only have the Rebels completely dominated the Raiders, but Larmer, Turner and other Campbellford marksmen have actually thrived in all of the high-sticking, hooking and mayhem the Napanee swat team has thrown at

On Tuesday night before a good-sized crowd on Campbellfordice, the Rebels simply picked up where they left off after 5-2 and 7-3 victories in the first two games by hammering the Raiders 6-0 behind the flawless goaltending of Steve Stockdale.

The teams were scheduled to meet again in game four in the best-of-seven round Wednesday night in Napanee. At that point the rugged Rebs were within one victory of successfully defending their champion-

Taking too many need-less and empty-headed pen-alties proved the Raiders undoing as the Rebels capi-talized on power plays for all of their six goals. Rebels took charge from the outset, charge from the outset, forechecking tenaciously, outskating the Raiders and showing a big edge in the bodily contact department with defenceman Ryan White handing out a series of thunderous bodychecks.

A Subdued Lot

Even the usually boisterous Napanee fans were a subdued lot and had little chance to do any cheering for their favourites.

Right from the outset, Larmer and Turner ignored the heavy-hitting and their concentration on the big pic ture has paid handsome dividends. On Saturday night, Larmer and Turner each scored twice and added two assists as the Rebels pow-ered their way to a 5-2 vic-

It was evident that the Raider plans included trying to take Larmer out of the game with some question-able physical tactics. Veteran Mike Manion twice speared Larmer, who retaliated, but the Campbellford captain avenged that treatment later with his offensive domina-

Trailing 1-0 after one period on a goal by Napanee's Mike Kinghan, Rebels came back strong with three sec-ond period goals and two more in the final 20 minutes. Defenceman Nick Myers added Campbellford's other goal while winger Bryce Levesque worked hard and was rewarded with a pair of assists.

Rebels outshot the Raiders 34-13.

Napanee--lt's all over including the cheering, and things didn't get any better for the bewildered Napanee Raiders right to the bitter end.

For the second year in a row, the Campbellford Rebels are Empire "B" Junior Hockey League cham-pions after sweeping past the Raiders in the minimum four games in the best-ofseven final series. Rebels completed the sweep Wednesday night 4-3 and the man the Raiders targeted during the series, captain Kewin Larmer, had the ultimate satisfaction by scor ing what proved to be the winning goal.

ice Sunday, Rebels built up a commanding 5-8 lead after two periods and then coasted victory Raiders demoralized Larmer broke loose again three more goals and added two assists, giving him nine scoring points in the first two games of the series.

Turner In Form

Turner, probably the best penalty-killing specialist in the league in addition to his 'quarterbacking' skills on the attack, scored once and had three assists. The other Rebel goal-getters were Adam Hagerman, Jeff Hay and Tony Goulah, the latter turning in a driving performance that earned him two helpers. Matt Coughlin, Matt Jarmin and Chris Reid re-plied for the Raiders. Again the Rebels showed a wide territorial edge in play, outshooting the Raiders 47-31. Stockdale turned in a solid performance by mak ing the big stops when

In the early minutes of ame two, Napanee's Ryan yman slashed Larmer and both players eventually were sentenced to 10-minute misconducts. All it served to do was get Kevin fired up and for the second game in a row he returned to almost personally wreck the Raiders. Later in the game Lyman was ejected with a misconduct and game mis-conduct by referee Cam

In game three. Campbellford scored the only goal of the first period with Bryce Levesque doing the honours and put together one of their most spirited erformances of the season. Raiders appeared to be to-tally bewildered at times.

Larmer had another fivepoint evening (two goals and three assists) for a total of 15 points in three games against a team that had hoped to keep him under wraps. Ian Pettey contributed another robust effort and scored twice in the bargain. Turner

A short devotional program started the evening with Frances Chamberlain at the piano for two hymins and readings by Barb Whalen.

And then it was fun time With Doreen playing and Bruce singing and every-one joining in, "a merry ole, time was had by all."

Bruce also sang a solo and still does a great job with those Irish songs.

A skit was presented by members of the group fea-turing Frances Chamberlain as the "Sweet 16 Sweet-heart" and Gord as her reluctant beau; Elli Urquhart was the mother and Bruce and Father Mc...someone. In the end, Gord was

Ice storm aid packages available to farmers

Eastern Ontario -- Immediate initial emergency assistance has been made available for Eastern On-tario farmers suffering losses from the ice storm.
"We are providing farmers of Eastern Ontario with much-needed interimemergency assistance to help them recover from the storm," the Minister of Agriculture, Food and Rural Affairs announced. "Hav-ing seen the devastation first-hand in my own com-munity," added Noble Villeneuve, "I realize that the extent of damage experienced by individual farmers can never be fully com-pensated, but this emergency aid will help begin the recovery process by getting funds into the hands of farmers as quickly as pos-

Emergency assistance funds will be provided for the following: Costs associated with operating, main-taining and repairing alternative electrical generation facilities or repairs to re-store electric power from the public utility; Emer-gency feed or other necessities for livestock, includ-ing the value of on-farm milk disposed of due to storm disruptions; Herd health costs directly attributable to the storm disrup-

"We are pleased to dedicate a significant part of the initial $50 million of emergency assistance to farmers living through the devastating ice storin of Eastern Ontario," noted the Minister of Municipal Affairs and Housing, Al Leach, "We hope these funds will go a long way towards helping them recover from the effects of this disaster."

Depending on the sever-ity and the duration of power outage, farmers may be eli-gible for payments of up to $1,000 to $2,000. Assist-ance of up to an additional $1,000 may be available to eligible farmers who file a submission for higher losses resulting from power out-ages greater than three weeks. Farmers requiring further information can call, their local OMAFRA field office or call 1-888-5584.

"While quick payment is aimed at farmers who need the immediate help, we are working with other minis-tries to develop a comprehensive program for the longer-term needs of rural Ontario," said Villeneuve.

He also noted that he is working with his federal colleague to ensure Ontario benefits from National disaster relief programs and with the Quebec Minister of Agriculture to ensure that farmers throughout the ice storm region are treated equitably under federal pro-

Rural job strategy fund an investment in future

By Dr. Doug Galt Northumberland MPP

A recent report on CBC's news magazine should set off alarm bells for every resident of rural Ontario.
It stated that a decline in rural areas is becoming more and more evident as popula-tion shifts to more urbanized regions. It underlined the need for active planning and investment to keep ru ral economies strong. In Ontario, the Rural Job Strategy Fund has been de-veloped in partnership with rural residents to help developlocal economies. This recognizes that governments can't do it all, but by working together with rural busi nesses and communities, the sum of our efforts can be much greater than the individual parts. With the $30 million Ru

A coordinated approach to marketing local products makes sense because the benefits ripple throughout the com-2 munity.

> Many rural businesses have recognized the need to develop new information technology to remove barriers to development.
> A successful example is the Lanark Communications Network: a communitybased initiative linking four towns and incorporating enhanced information tech-nology into the daily practices of local businesses

Another example of a type of project likely to be funded is the "Pride of Grey-Bruce"—a distinctive logo and region-wide mar-keting program that high-lights local products, busisses, and hospital services in that area.

Ibelieve Northumberland could benefit from similar strategies. While the fund is not available to individuals orindividual businesses, it is available to groups of busi-nesses that wish to develop quality standards, new technologies, or community-based economic strategies. Project criteria and more detailed information is available at the local OMAFRA

Proposed projects valued at $50,000 may be cost-shared with up to 70 per cent government funding tor funding. Projects of more, than $50,000 are eligible for investment on a 50/50 basis. Applicants are required to submit a short concept paper, outlining the project and per, outlining the project and partners in general terms. Successful applications will require a full business plan, and will be reviewed by a panel with private sector participation.

With new strategic business and municipal alliances possible all across Northum-berland, I believe this is an opportunity worth pursuing. If you or your organization have ideas about how we can build new rural partnerships, please contact my office at the number below or call OMAFRA directly all-888-588-4111

Organizations and businesses aiming for a better future

Rural Community Advisor

Many of our rural organizations and business are coming up to year end and will be either preparing for annual meetings or get-ting ready to file tax re-

Here are some reflections that may prompt action now that can help these be significant milestone

Still Fits: This is a good time to give some thought to the central goals of the organization or business. The Rural Community Ad-visors in OMAFRA field offices have access to a number of assessment tools that would be helpful to executive members of rural organizations.

They can help you ask the right questions. Busi-ness owners might find these questionnaires interesting too. Although they do not focus on businesses, looking at your business from another perspective may give fresh insights that

Taking inventory: Havin: a good handle on your essential first step in any meaningful evaluation. In organizational jargon its called doing a SWOT analysis, which stands for Strengths, Weaknesses, Opportunities and Threats

It's important not to stop with the identification for Strengths and Weaknesses. but to go several steps further and proactively identify both present and poten-tial threats, and put strategies in place to deal with them.

At the same time, it's important to "crystal ball" and identify some of the opportunities that are there for your organization because of your unique characteristics

A common tendency is to ignore human assets when taking inventory. Per-haps people believe that they are powerless to make changes here.

However, creative recruitment that intentionally seeks out a diversity of talent will go a long way to an organizastrengthen tion or business.

When building a team, it is recommended that your players include a facilitator. a practical hard-head, a numbers person, a futureminded strategist, and at least one creative person.

Businesses need the same range of talents and the number of full-time em ployees that can be supported.

You can seek out the future thinkers at conferences, in magazines, from amongst your peers, or on the internet. The Key is to be intentional about it or your tendency will be to never improve on the status quo Succession Planning: The one constant that faces both businesses and organizations these days is change. It seems we don't have any choice about that. However, we can choose to be prepared for those changes that are inevitable.

Healthy organizations have a balanced age profile with junior, intermediate and senior ages being rep-resented in the membership. If a quick look at yours shows the opposite trend, you might want to seek out younger members. Family businesses need to start planning well in advance for the retirement of the senior partners and the transfer of the ownership and responsibility to the next generation.

In the same way, organi-zations that have a specific term of office can predict a change in leadership. The most successful organizations prepare for a change in leadership by grooming upcoming leaders for the positions they know will be

Joint trade challenge ahead?

It's expected that New Zealand will join the United States in challenging Canada's special class pooling system, according to Dairy Farmers of Canada (DFC).

A DFC update says that, should the two countries launch a joint challenge be-fore the World Trade Organization (WTO), the process will be longer than first expected.

The U.S. requested for mal consultations last fall with Canada about its special classes for the dairy dustry. The Americans claim that our pooling system sub-sidizes exports. Ottawa has steadfastly countered that special class pricing is in line with WTO rules.

The next step in the process would be a request for a dispute settlement panel. So far the U.S. has not done so. New Zealand, meanwhile, also asked for formal consultations. Again, if there's no resolution to the dispute from the consultations, it can request a panel.

If, as expected, the two countries combine their challenges, a panel would not provide an interim report until late summer. The whole process, including any ap-peals, would take until April or May 1999. Tax Breaks

DFC will be looking into the possibility of better tax treatment for dairy farmers who expand their operations. A resolution passed at the organization's recent policy conference in Vancouver called for creation of a national committee to look into options. A report is sched-uled for DFC's annual meeting in July.

The resolution preamble noted that the federal gov ernment is promoting greater efficiency in farm production. In the dairy industry, however, uncertainty about market size and level of returns make new capital investments difficult to justify. Stan Van Keulen of British Columbia sparked adop-tion of the resolution when said the butteroil-sugar blend imports could force another quota cut. He would have to buy more quota to maintain his production so he could meet his financial obligations. Improved tax treatment would help producers meet those obliga tions without affecting milk prices, he said.

Ottaw about new tax relief would have to wait until the government brings down its 1999 budget. The recently announced 1998 budget doesn't leave enough time to develop new ideas for government consideration.

mu farming serves many industries

by W. Brice McVicar

The word "farm" brings many pictures to mind ranging from pigs and sheep, cattle and chicken to emu and rhea. Emu and rhea? Well, maybe not everyone thinks of these flight less birds when they hear the word, but George Jones

Jones, whose Triple Oak Acres farm just outside Stirling, breeds both emu and rhea. Jones has been breeding the birds for about four years and feels the farming life is something he's suited for. Emus are a bird slightly smaller than ostrich and weigh in at about one hundred pounds. One of the advantages of farming these birds is practically nothing goes to waste except for the head of the bird. The rest, from the feathers to the talons on it's threetoed feet, can be used by some industry in the world.

The whole thing started when Jones' wife. Cathy, answered an ad in a newspaper about antique dolls. She went to see the dolls and discovered herself on an ostrich farm. She found them interesting and told her husband she would like to possibly try a bird farm. Before they knew it they were knee deep in emu. Jones says one of the advantages of starting the farm in 1994 was the breeders market for emu was extremely high, unfortunately the market took a dive a year later.

Breeding the emu is harder than it may sound, it's not a simple matter of putting them together and letting nature have its way. Emu breed for life, yet like humans not every pair are combatable. Jones says one of the hardest things in the business is pairing a female with a male to her liking. If with a male to ner nking. in the female is paired with a male they do not like the birds could possibly fight. Emu reach sexual maturity when they are sixteen to eighteen months old and lay eggs when they are two years old. The eggs are roughly the same size as a NERF football and are green in colour.

The breeding season goes from the beginning of November to the beginning of April. A female can produce anywhere from 30 to 40 eggs in a season and some farmers have even had females that lay 50 in a single season.

incubates Jones every egg that is laid and raises the chicks from hatching. He goes down everyday to collect the eggs at 5:30 p.m., if there is a female pacing it usually means she's preparing to lay an egg so he'll go back down at 7 to retrieve that Though an emu doesn't necessarily look menacing Jones warns their looks can be deceiving.

"Those talons on their feet can rip through your chest and puncture a lung," Jones warns. Another frightening skill the birds have is their ability to kick with a force of 300 to 400 pounds of pressure. They also can jump to heights over six feet and can give someone a good pecking with their hard beaks. Jones has never been seriously injured by the birds although he has been kicked in the knee, mid-section and back as well as having his ear snipped with a beak and has ved a few pecks on the head

"Never turn your back on them when they're not familiar with you and if you do have to turn your back on them remember that they're there," Jones ad-vises. He also points out that the birds, like many animals, can sense fear in a person.

One of the main diseases that can easily kill the birds is something known as "coon-worm". Coonworm comes from raccoon manure, a small worm comes out of the manure and will lay eggs on grass blades. The grass is then cut and used for bedding for the birds and the birds will eat small amounts of the grass and possibly eating the worms from these eggs. The worm, now in the birds stomach, will move into the brain of the bird and cause the bird to "act like it's drunk. It walks around and weaves and bobs and eventually will die." Emu have many uses

The meat from the bird can be used as steak, hamburger, and roasts. The hide is the second strongest hide in the world, the strongest being elephant, and is used to make purses, vests and shoes. The feathers can be used in dusters and are used by the General Motor Company to dust Cadillacs be-fore they're painted and the deadly talons are used in the jewellery industry to shave diamonds. The fat of the birds has an oil in it which can be used to relieve arthritis, sunburns, cuts, insect bites and scoriaceous.

The emu meat is lean red meat which is high in iron and protein but is lower in cholesterol than chicken, pork and beef and has fewer

Problems with Alfalfa Round Bale Haylage?

by Beth Wheeler, Dairy Cattle Nutrition Specialist, OMAFRA Brighton

I have had several inquiries this winter about the feeding value of high qual-ity alfalfa ensiled in round bales. The common complaints are that cows are down in milk, and losing body condition rapidly.

This is hard for produc-ers to understand, considering that the quality of this balage is excellent (over 20 per cent protein, under 30 per cent ADF). What could be causing the poor performance and loss of condition? Several things come to mind:

1). If soluble protein levels are high in the round bale haylage, then the cow has to expend a lot of en-ergy to deaminate (remove the nitrogen portion) the amino acids and excrete them as urea.

This can explain the loss of body weight and difficulty in restoring weight in late lactation when the diet is likely higher in round bale haylage. It takes a lot of energy to excrete the extra nitrogen, and this energy comes off the cow's back or out of the milk pail. Check ration pro-tein content at several production levels to make sure protein is not being overfed.

High milk urea nitrogen levels indicate too much protein, or too much solubale protein.

Our Extra

Really Shine

Values

2) There is some evidence that lignin levels in hav crops increase in cool weather like we had this spring. Lignin is indigest-ible and the cow gets no energy out of it. Balage may have a low ADF and NDF. but if the proportion that is lignin is higher, the energy available to the cow is

3) There are some new energy equations being re-ported on the AGRIFOOD lab reports. At the bottom of the sheet you may see a WTDN or WNE. These were developed by Weiss that's why they start with
 W. These take into account the lignin levels and the re-duction in cellulose digestion which occurs when the

Some of the analysis values I am seeing this year are giving the regular TDN at 63 per cent and the WTDN at 58 or 59 per cent (a com-mon drop of three or four per cent is not uncommon). Perhaps the WTDN values should be used in ration formulation (or at least something in between regular TDN and WTDN).

ly gut feeling is that we as overestimating the en-cory value of high quality hay crops. I find it difficult to believe that alfalfa round bale haylage could provide the same energy level as corn silage that is not earred, but that is what the num-bers are telling us.

A baled haylage sample with low ADF (27 or 28 per cent) will get an extremely high TDN value (around 64 per cent), but I don't think this is anywhere near what the cow gets out of it. Don't forget point 1 -- that it takes energy to get rid of the ex-tra soluble protein.

4) If the cows are thin, they are telling you they need more energy. Make the appropriate ration adjustments, and re-evaluate body condition in two or three months.

5) If forage is very high is soluble protein, make sure there is rapidly available starch present to help the rumen microbes use up the extra nitrogen.

This means grinding grain finer, providing high moisture corn, barley or wheat. I have a few produc-ers who are feeding fed grade starch for just this protein.

Are these producers seeing a lot of grain particles in the manure? If yes, then starch levels may be too low, or the grains are not processed enough.

Don't forget that high quality baled haylage moves through the cowvery rapidly (almost like pasture) and this reduces the digestion of starch in the rumen and allows more to pass out undigested.

6) It is difficult to ensile high quality round bales haylage, especially at high moisture levels. Often the fermentation is slow in high quality forage, especially in third and fourth cuttings when the sugar levels are low, moisture is high and temperature is cool.
This is more likely to lead to abnormal fermentation and promotes the pro-duction of butyric acid, which is very unpalatable. Maybe the intake of round bale haylage is lower than what the ration is formulated for.

Also, round bales of haylage will vary in mois-ture content. Feeding a bale a day may be providing dif-fering amounts of dry matter each day, and forage intake may be over or under estimated.

Keep in mind that forage analyses are only a guide-line in ration formulation. The real truth is told by the performance, health and production of your cows.

You should be prepared to make ration adjustments

Two farmers die from sewe

Ontario -- Two southwestern Ontario farmers died recently as a result of contact with hydrogen sulphidegases produced in liquid manure

The victims were trans-ferring liquid manure from a holding tank to mix with older manure to loosen it up, then drain it back into the liquid manure holding tank. The area into where the liquid manure was being pumped was poorly ven-tilated. The two victims and a third person who was assisting them were overcome by the gases produced during agitation of the liquid. victim died several days later while the second victim died in hospital two weeks later. This is not an isolated case

In another incident, in the fall of 1996, three Burford area-men narrowly escaped death following entry into an almost-empty liquid manure tank. Firefighters had to rescue the Many liquid manure tanks will lack oxy gen because other gases will displace it. Methane gas-may also be present in manure holding tanks and spreader tanks as well as the deadly hydrogen sul-phide gas. Hydrogen sul-phide gas is released when manure is agitated and con-centrations can build very quickly to toxic levels. Even empty manure tanks may contain dangerous levels of these gases. If inhaled in high concentrations, death can be instantaneous.

With the rate of decline in CO2 emissions they were seeing, Dr. Desjardins pro-jected forward to the year 2010 to make a promising prediction.

"By the year 2000 we calculate that 55 per cent of cultivated lands will be increasing their carbon con-tent and by 2010 Canada's agricultural soils could be gaining 10 kg of carbon per hectare per year," he said. The great reversal in CO2 emissions is not due to any real mystery, Dr. Desjardins says, but is a direct result of the conservation practices more and more Canadian farmers are adopting.

New Sheep Breeding Strategy offers Commercial Benefits

Asphodel-Norwood -The Ontario lamb market is on the brink of a commercial explosion and a unique breeding strategy involving local sheep producers and researchers will help meet expected demand while achieving very high quali-

The Ontario Lamb Improvement Breeding Strat-egy (OLIBS) is a new (less than two-years-old) indus-try-driven initiative combining sheep producers. government services and researchers in an effort to improve Ontario lamb production.

"It was implemented by the Ontario Sheep Marketing Agency as a research infrastructure to provide Ontario sheep producers the opportunity of economic expansion," explains Eadie Steele of Asphodel Township.

She and her husband John are actively involved in the exciting program which marries cutting edge research with on-the-farm production.

The Ontario lamb market is unique in that it sup-plies a strong demand for lamb by various ethnic groups from the Greater Toronto Area," Mrs. Steele explains.

"The industry has the potential for significant expansion as it is currently able to provide 50 per cent of the 3,000 lambs sold every week," she notes.

Mrs. Steele says there are four components to the OLIBS: producer education modules, sheep flock health improvement program, reproductive research and animal production. New developments in the area of reproductive re-search have been used to increase the rate of produc-tion of the OLIBS crossbred replacement ewes.

"All of the current sheep research at the University of Guelph," she says, "has been applied to artificial insemination techniques. gamete transfer research andembryotransplanttech-nology."

Mrs. Steele says a great deal of progress has been made in these areas and it will benefit all sheep producers in Ontario by mak-ing these procedures "more available and affordable."

"Producers who are anxiously awaiting the sale of OLIBS ewes will be happy to learn that over 100 of se animals have now been delivered to "Replicating Breeders" in Ontario.

limited number of breeding stock will be available for sale in late 1998," she says.

"These new arrivals herald the start of improve-ments to the Ontario sheep industry that will prepare producers to accommodate increased consumer demand in the next century. The Dorset and Rideau breeds were chosen for this project for several reasons. Steele says

Selection of animals for the initial elite flock was based on out-of-season breeding ability and prominent maternal traits, she explains.

The original genetics were "sourced" from superior dam lines into this program as provided by a select group of dedicated Purebred Breeders who are working within their respective breed groups to con-tinually improve upon these foundation characteristics."

She says the replicating breeders in the program aim to produce and market large quantities of replacement dam lines of preferred ge-netics and known health status ewes suited to Ontario conditions

"The replicators plan to develop a stable and ex-panding industry infrastructure for continued production, evaluation and marketing of the improved dam lines.

"This would, " Mrs. Steele adds," provide the industry with large numbers of high health, above average production replacement stock; at less cost than purebreds

The OLIBS replacement ewe is bred to wean a large number of lambs under intensive management and to be suitable for accelerated lambing programs due to naturally prolonged breeding season."

Using OLIBS replacement ewes will have many benefits to the commercial producer, Mrs. Steele points

The replacements will allow producers to concen-trate on "profitable lamb production" and utilize uni-form genetics for market-ing uniform groups of lambs and acquire any number of replacement animals when needed.

The extensive performance production records will provide the informa-tion necessary to make the most profitable breeding selections for terminal sire crosses and will allow producers to follow the purchased replacement stock concept used by poultry and hog industries with significant improvements to over-all flock genetics, production, management and

Mrs. Steele says the OLIBS replacement ewes will not be immune to (or more resistant to) the specified diseases but they will have a low risk of carrying the listed diseases."
The plan was developed to evaluate the prevention and eradication schemes for the following diseases: Maedi Visna, Caseous Lymphadenitis, Johne's Disease, Chlamydia Psittaci Abortion, Contagious Ovine Footrot and Contagious Ecthyma.

Due to the high cost of Due to the high cost of-blood testing and flock monitoring, Mrs. Steele says a "high emphasis" is placed on "bio-security" at the replicator farms, like the one in Asphodel.

"This emphasis on bio-security also ensures that future buyers are purchasing sheep with a reliable

"For commercial sheep producers who are intersted in increasing the profitability of their flocks, the OLIBS replacement ewe is a natural choice," she adds. Right now Ontario lamb prices are consistently among the highest unsupamong the highest unsup-ported prices in the world. The current liveweight sale price averages $1.45 to $2.10 per pound (depend-ing on the age of the lamb) at the Cookstown Market.

In an effort to supply a uniform product to national retailers, the marketing agency has recently imple mented a program for "forward contracting."

This program will enable large commercial flocks to avoid risk marketing prices and maximize premiums for quality lamb as a result of using new OLIBS genetic stock.

"The forward contract program will lay the groundwork to allow producers to tap into the restaurant and hospital markets which have, so far, not known the delights of Ontario lamb,

I reasoned that if people make whisky jack by freezing fermented apple cider and throwing away the ice leaving a potent liquid refreshment I should be able to save my-self a lot of boiling by doing the same to maple sap. I emptied out the freezer, placed the sap in five gallon plastic pails and set the dial to coldest. As the sap freezes the sugar will stay in solution in the unfrozen centre. After one day of freezing-about 50 per cent of the water has frozen. I now drill

Tales from Shiloh Far ice and pour out the con-centrated sap. I place that in pails and repeat the process one more day. I now have reduced five gallons of sap to less than one gallon of concentrated sap which I proceed to boil in the usual way. Very little sap is lost but a whole lot of time and wood has been saved. Furthermore, the quality of syrup produced is the same. The only thing you have changed is the method of removing the water.
This year we are just doing 30 taps in the small bush across the creek by the loafing barn (in my case aptly named). The trees are on a fairly steep hill and I was slipping and sliding all over the place. I solved that spiked g found th successfu golfed. I Canadia spiked sar to your b ther airea or about t they wor

Safe environment for beaten and abused women

by W. Brice McVicar

Not every home can fall under that cute old phrase "Home Sweet phrase "Home Sweet Home". For that reason the centre Hastings Safe Family Environments was started to help abused women and their children.

The Safe Family Environment, which recently moved to St. Lawrence Street West in Madoc is there to provide counsel-ling and protection for women who may find themselves in an abusive relationship.
A violence against women survey done by Statistics Canada in 1993 stated that "one-half of all Canadian worhen have experienced at least one incident of violence since the age of sixteen." The more frightening aspect of that statistic is the fact that not all incidents are reported.

Tristan Lindsay, an outreach worker at Safe Family Environments, points out that not all abuse comes in the physical form. Abuse can be verbal, mental and even financial where the woman could be "re-duced to a childhke state where they're given an allowance.

"A lot of women don't think they're in an abusive relationship because they've never known anything else," Lindsay said, "You don't want to admit that you are (in an abusive relationship) be-cause it's hard on your own self-esteem. You take it because you think you deserve'it.

Physical abuse usu-ally works in a cycle. The man will hit the woman and then he'll apologize, say he'll never do it again and became the woman's dream mate again by wining and dining her, then after the tension has passed he'll strike her again and the cy-cle is off to a fresh start.

Lindsay also says the abuse from a man can come from his upbringing. If the man's father beat his mother then that sets a standard in Continued on page 20

O.P.P:Car thefts and break-ins

On March 7 in Huntingdon Township one adult and three young people were arrested in a stolen car that was parked in a driveway along Preston Road. The driver was held in custody for a bail hearing later that day facing charges of possession of stolen property, mischief and obstructing justice.

Following the arrest, the driver, 28 year old Delbert Cassidy of Cavan, provided false identification. He purposely struck his head against the plexiglas barrier in the police cruiser causing his nose to bleed and shook blood about and spit in the interior of the police car. The three young people were released unconditionally.

In Madoc on March 9 a stolen car from Believille was recovered on a Madoc car lot where attempts were made to steal another vehicle from that location. Police in Killaloe recovered a car on March 10 that was in fact stolen from the same location in Madoc. The car was recovered before own-ers realized it was stolen. Meanwhile, a stolen car was discovered burning along County Road 6 south of Reid, Anyone with infor-mation about these stolen-carseancall O.P.P. or Crime Stoppers

by W. Brice McVicar

The Municipality of Centre Hastings has decided to abolish the yard sale by-law for one year and see how things run during the season.

This comes after a discussion as to whether or not it was reasonable to have the by-law in place to moni-tor the sales in the municipality.

pality.

Councillor Larry

Mitz said he felt that people paying five dollars for the license was "a nuisance fee." In his view it was a waste of people's time to have to drive to the municipal office to purchase the license which permitted the holder to have no more than two garage sales per year and these could run for three consecutive days from eight a.m/to nine p.m. Reeve Tom Deline commented that though the municipality does sell a great deal of the licenses it would not hurt the municipality's income if they did away with the by-law. Councillor Mitz questioned whether you could have a by-law for the Village of Madoc and not for the other areas of the municipality.

Councillor Schulz said it was not balanced that people would have to pay five dollars for a license and then the municipality would have to pay the By-Law Enforcement Officer to drive around the area to ensure each person hosting a yard sale had a license in his possession.

Council discussed various methods of spear-heading the problem before it was decided to get-rid of the by-law and see how the yard sale season runs this summer and would discuss it at a later date

Junior girls' volleyball gleaming with gold

The C.H.S.S. Junior Girls' Volleyball team fin-ished their season gleamwith gold at the recent COSSA tournament held at I.E. Weldon.

The girls qualified for the COSSA tournament by placing second to Brighton at the Bay of Quinte tournament held on February 25. At COSSA, the girls placed-second in their pool to allow them to advance to the semi-finals. The team they faced, their archrivals from Brighton, after losing their first game 15 - 10, the girls placed themselves in a "do or die" situation. They were not giving up yet and came back to win the match two games to one. This elimi-nated Brighton and the girls advanced to the finals to face Thomas A. Stewart. face Thomas A. Stewart. Still riding an emotional high, the girls defeated Thomas A. Stewart two games to none to capture the "prestige gold" of the COSSA tournament. Why would you ever hit a woman? Does she talk toomuch? Does she hit you? Does she drink all your beer? Huh? Tell me one good reason that a man should ever raise a hand to à woman. You can't can you? That's because there is no reason any woman should ever be hit.

It seems to me our society continuously turns its head when the matter of spousal abuse comes up. Child abuse we seem to be getting a little better with but spousal abuse is something we don't hear quite as much about. Oh, sure, when the wife ends up dead or she shoots her husband in a rage we hear about the incident, the trial, a complete dissection of the verdict and, finally, how she's coping two years later. Pathetic. We shouldn't have to hear about these "incidents" because they simply should not be

Being a man I can honestly say I have no understanding of what would ever merit a man punching. hitting or kicking his wife or girlfriend.

Now just wait a minute. It said the word "abuse" earlier but physical abuse is not the only kind. What about mental. verbal and even monetary abuse. Not untifrecently had I ever heard of the latter but it is a form of abuse which takes place in the home.

Personally, I'd prefer to take a punch in the gut any day compared to having someone lash at me with their tongue. At least with a physical punch the pain subsides eventually.

Either way, which-ever form of abuse we're looking at, there's no reason for anyone to have to live through that kind of personal helf. I realize voman sometimes finds it hard to leave an abu relationship but hopefully that woman will someday come to her senses and leave the man who's hurting her

As for those incidents where the husband finally does push the wife too far and she retaliates by blowing his head off? Good for er, give her a cigar and the blowtorch to light it with! These incidents don't happen often enough. I'm not a supporter of violence but there is a time when vigi-lante justice is needed. Maybe society has led men to believe that they are supposed to be the strongest in the relationship and therefore if force is needed they should be able to use it as they deem necessary. That's one theory but my strue thought is that men who abuse are insecure in their power and in the relation-ship.

Phyllis opened the meeting in prayer and de-votion. She asked us a curious question. What is your hope? All through life we have hope and aspirations. As a child perhaps wanting to be an actor, singer or just wanting a bicycle. As adult we hope to own a car or a house or have money. But David said in Psalm 71 My hope is in the Lord, my rock and my refuge." If you put your hope and trust in the Lord. He will provide all your needs.

Mary Gifford, pastor of the Free Methodist Church in Cordova, was our guest speaker. She gave us food for thought when she asked when we recite the Lord's prayer or well known verses such as Psalm 23, do we really mean what we're saying? Do we stop to pon-der what it all means? When Mary visited the hills in Judea, they saw a lot of sheep there and shepherds tending the flocks. Some shepherds stayed with the flocks all night and these sheep seemed to be content and fairly quiet however. the ones left alone and unat-tended cried restlessly. Did you know that our shep-herd, the Lord, never slumbers or sleeps but keeps watch over his sheep day and night, those whom He has called to know Him... The Lord is my shepherd I shall not want! We may worry what we need or do not have but those who know the Lord don't need to worry what they have or need. He provides for us in his own time. We hear his voice and follow Him. He leads us to green pastures beside the still waters. peaceful and calm. We drink the water of his word and are filled with everlasting life. He is the good shep-herd! Will you hear his voice today calling you?

The next meeting will feature Sister Alice Johnson of Peterborough, April 6 9:30 a.m. at the United Church in Havelock.

The announcement came almost four years to the day the Buck and Stanley farms in Asphodel Township were put on shortlist of potential sites :- a bombshell that galvanized the community

This short list would eventually be tossed out after much eloquent protest and keen research, paving the way for the announce-ment of another mini list of candidate sites, one that would include the Wilson and Graham farms east of Westwood.

Kawartha OPP makes bid for new radars

Highway 7 "SOS zone" will be program target

By Bill Freeman

Asphodel-Norwood -The Kawartha OPP could get a big boost in their highway seven enforcement pro-gram if the province accepts their funding application for two new radar units.

It is part of a "compre-hensive strategy" that ad-dresses traffic enforcement as a means of intensifying crime prevention, says Sen-ior OPP Constable Debbie Delisle, one of the officers preparing the written submission to a special provin-cial commission studying crime control.

There is also an educational component to the pre-vention strategy that would involve raising awareness about the perils of aggressive driving and the alarm ing rise of "road rage."

At Monday evening's Safe on Seven meeting, Sergeant Rick Griffis discussed briefly the "business case" prepared by the detachment and told members that the number of criminal code charges, like danger-ous' driving and criminal negligence, related to highway seven incidents sup-ports the bid for funding to a committee interested in crime control:

"Even though it is a crime control program we feel there is a criminal element in traffic," Sgt. Griffis said. We feel we may be successful.

"If we get the funding we could get (the radars) almost within a week." he enforcement strategy which will target both highway 115 and the 22 km SOS zone along highway seven where "aggressive driving practices have contributed to the tremendous carnage" on the road.

The funding would also help the detachment pre-pare information packages on the modern aggressive driving phenomenon of road rage.

Lots of different kinds of drivers have exhibited aggressive tendencies at one time or another, she explained.

"Education is knowledge," she said adding that they want to combine enforcement with this educational aspect of the proposal. Both the SOS committee and Peterborough's Operation Lookouthave endorsed the proposal.

These two groups are involved in crime prevention and we want to use them a little bit more, she said.

The Golden Eagle gives officers the ability to monitor traffic coming towards them and from behind, she savs

It is a "much safer" method for monitoring traffic. she adds.

Const Delisle says the single antenna "MDR I" radar unit, which can only track traffic coming towards a cruiser, is very difficult to use in heavy traffic and presents potential problems for officers and the public. Sgt. Griffis says they also have two Hawk radars which are used on highways 115 and 7. Four to five officers are trained to use them.

The Hawks can also monitor traffic three different ways, from behind, forwards and following a cruise.

"The Eagle is a newer version of the Hawk." The detachment, he says. has also received special permission to use the OPP's unmarked traffic car during evening shifts. The prime goal is to get the two Eagles. If we get these we'll be all set.

They're really good."
Const. Delisle says that slowing up aggressive drivers on highway 115 before they hit highway 7 is impor-

Their frustrations would only be compounded on an 80 km, two-lane zone with limited room for passing, she says.

It is crucial to identify aggressive drivers on 115.

She notes that the Ka-wartha detachment has more 2800 kilometres in roads to cover and must "be fair in its distribution of radar and traffic enforcement around the area it polices.

With two radars specific to 115 and the SOS zone they will be able to "free other radars. up'

The Central Region R.I.D.E. team has also used the OPP $18,000 laser radar gun on highway 115. Sgt. Griffis says. "When it was first used it paid for itself in one day on 115." he said.

The laser is "very exact" and can track five vehicles at the same time and pin point speeds and distances -whether moving towards the unit or away from it.

The more conventional radars required a great deal of visual observation.

Const. Delisle could not say how long it would be before they would know if their submission had been successful. The deadline was Mar. 13.

Think Farm Safety

Fresh air, sunshine and wide open spaces ... the farm is a perfect place to raise à family. An idyllic picture of a potentially dangerous place, especially for chil-dren, because unlike other industries, children cannot be completely kept away from the workplace. Farm parents must be particularly vigilant and educate their children in farm safety. National Farm Safety week March 11-18, is an opportunity to encourage all rural families to improve farm health and safety

Farm Safety Week

The Canadian Federation of Agriculture, John Deere Ltd., the Coalition for Agricultural Safety and Rural Health and Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada invite the public to think safety during the National Farm Safety Week. Please drive with caution in rural areas and slow down when approaching farm machinery. With your help collisions between farm equipment and motor vehicles can be prevented.

Marigolds as chemicals

There may be some fact in folklore. For many years, many home gardeners believed marigolds deterred some garden pests. Now research has shown these popular annuals effectively control some types of nematodes. While the compounds in marigolds stop these microscopic pests from de-stroying plant roots, the natural pesticide agents do not affect the beneficial microorganisms in the soil. Agriculture and Agri-Food anada scientists at the Southern Crop Protection and Research Centre, in Delhi and London Ontario, are now exploring the commercial potential of marigolds as an alternative to chemicals used to furnigate nematodes in sandy soil.

Animal highway patrol

Because practice makes perfect, Canadian Food Inspection Agency inspectors recently hit the highways of northern Ontario to uphold animal health regulations in livestock transport. On this training exercise, greenhorn inspectors got a grip on proper procedure with more than a taste of the gruelling Yet this stressful work is essential to keeping Canada's food supply safe Although the objective was training, they handled three minor rule infractions on the roadside. The 17 inspectors stopped a total of trucks while patrolling 700 square kms.

Services Study

The improvements being introduced result from a se ries of intensive stakeholder consultations culminating in the report of the Agriculture and Rural Advisory Services Study. The new organization will be in place by the fall of this year

The plan will be implemented in four steps: Step one, launch of full plan; step two, announcing the program leads; step three, local area delivery; step four, Sept. 1998, new organization in place.

The improved service delivery system will include 43 service locations across Ontario, including a central office in Guelph, 35 field offices and seven co-locations. Field offices will serve a well-defined geographic area, to ensure that local issues, as well as broader concerns with a local impact are known and understood. The service delivery team will comprise:

Evaluating, monitoring ecosystem health

The primary research tocus of the Eco-Research Chair Program at the Unithe Eco-Research ersity of Guelph is to de velop methods for evaluating and monitoring ecosystem health at a variety snatial scales and a variety of ecological contexts.

In the Southern Ontario ecoregion, where agriculture is an important economi activity and a dominantland use, there is a clear opportunity to explore farm-level applications of the concepts and methods of ecosystem health. To that end, the Eco-Research Chair Program, in collaboration with one of its sponsors, the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture, Foodand Rural Affairs (OMAFRA) initiated transdisciplinary program in farming systems research

This collaboration repreents an important partner ship between the Eco-Re-search Chair Program and the OMAFRA/University of Guelph Research Program ia the Agri-Food Systems Program.
The broad goal of the farming systems research venture is to develop and test an approach for assessthe health and sustainability of Ontario's farming systems. The understand interactions between environmental, economic and social phenomena at the spatial scale which is most relevant to decision agement-the farm. Thus an important objective of the project is to provide applied research and practical information in a form that is of direct benefit to producers and agricultural advisors

In addition to the applied findings and the expectation of direct benefits to agricul-ture in Southern Ontario, the farming systems component offers potential for scholarly innovation.

The project represents a union of several disciplines and research approaches where cross-fertilization has previously been limited but is now needed. The integra-tion, of perpsectives from fields such as agricultural systems analysis, farming systems research and extension, sustainable agriculture, ecology, human agroecology and ecosystem health represents one of the disctinctive features of the approach. It will also result in a contribution to scholarships in this field via the dissemination of findings and the fraining o transdisciplinary scholars.

New legislation good for Ontario farming

Federation of Agriculture is pleased that the provincial government is making good in a commitment to deliver stronger legislation to protect normal farming prac-

An Act to Protect Farm-ing and Food Production was introduced in the legislature last year by Ontario Agriculture, Food and Rural Affairs Minister Noble Villeneuve. It will safeguard farmers' ability to conduct their business and produce food without fear of nui-sance lawsuits or without facing barriers created by unnecessarily restrictive municipal by laws

This new legislation clearly reinforces agriculture as a provincial interest," says OFA vice-president Mary O'Connor, "Mr. Villeneuve supports the business of farming and we appreciate the work he has done to bring this legislation forward. Farmers now have the assurance they need to get on with the job of providing the people of Ontario with quality food and fueling the pro-vincial economy."

The new legislation includes an expanded definition of agricultural operations, the development of an eness campaign to educate potential rural property buyers, and measures to ensure municipalities take normal farm practices into account when drafting byUnder the legislation, a Normal Farm Practices Protection Board, composed of cillors, will have expanded and will rul tutes a norn continue to be concerned with butteroil-sugar blends being imported into Canada as a replacement for Canadian butterfat (cream) in many low and medium quality ice creams.

Dairy Farmers of Canada ask Government to close Loophole

It is estimated these importéd blends have dis placed the equivalent of 2.5 per cent of Canada's industrial milk production dur ing the last year.

The issue is that butteroil/sugar blends are being imported into-Canada in increasing amounts. Butteroil and sugar as separate prod ucts are subject to tariffs and import duties. How eyer, as a blend the Canadian government al lows them into Canada tariffree. This loophole has meant imports of these blends have in creased 500 per cent since 1995

According to the Dairy Farmers of Canada (DFC), milk production was reduced as a result of these unports transforming into $50 million loss for Canadian dairy producers Government repre-sentatives at the GATT told the DFC that dairy blends would be captured on a tantf line which producers would bepleased with. DFC has been asking the government to reclassify these blends onto a line which provides the import control promised by the government.

He cited "superior natural hydrogeological condi-tions in terms of permeability, thickness and setting" and also noted that it relied on a "less complex" systerm literms of "risk factors." the Otonabee-Bensfort site had the advantage, Mr.

"Overall, it is clearly advantaged in terms of development and operations." The "markedly superior natural hydrogeological conditions" and "signifi-cantly lower overall" cost site development weighed heavily in the consultant's recommendation, to the WMSC.

The consultants said it would cost $24.5 million to develop the Asphodel site and another $16.3 million annually to operate while annually to operate while the Otonabee site, with an overall total cost of $25.6 million -- $12.5 million to develop and $13.1 million to operate -- put it clearly ahead in the second tier eco-nomic-financial category.

But in the most highly considered category, pub-lic health & safety and potential impacts on water re-sources, the Otonabee site was the most highly pre-terred location.

Mr. Steele said the hydrogeologistlooked at the three sites and the ability to predict ground water movement, the uniformity of material and their predict-

Based on the nature of the material, the most uniformly predictable was Otonabee, he explained. At the Asphodel site, he said the "nature of the material is highly permeable.

'Contaminant movement within the subsurface material can be very rapid in the event of the escape of ontaminants from the fandfill." he said.

The glacial till and semipervious setting at the Otonabee site means it would be "more restrictive." he said, and potential contammants would not have the same rate of movement from the fill area.

Mr. Steele also said the so-called "overburden was thickets at the Otonabee

There is at least 20 metres of thickness in the northern part of the site where at least 85 per cent of the waste is expected to be landfilled.

They also measured the potential risks from the "total reliance" on an engineered result and approach and ruled out Asphodel which would require the "most complex system." Mr. Steele said an engineered system at the Pinewood pit near Westwoodwouldrequire an attenuation layer at the bot-tom, a double liner system. leachate collection pipes and an undersystem of tow drains and underdrains

Their recommendation suggests that the "least complex system" with the "least element of risk" would be at the Otonabee site based on their assessment of groundwater conditions and movement.

In the third public health & safety category concern ing traffic impacts the consultants came down in favour of your of Asphodel with the least number of bus stops (4) and driveway access points (18).

Asphodel was also the most preferred in the second tier social/cultural category in terms of displacement of on-site residents, the potential for impacts offsite residents, disruption of residents along the primary haul route.

The consultants also say there would be "limited aquatic habitat impact' the Asphodel site.

There are essentially some ponds with some rep tiles and amphibians; certain aquatic plants that are poor quality

The northern half of the Otonabee site is immediately north of a Class 5 wetland and putting a "large hole 15 metres deep, even though it is designed and engineered to deal with (draw-down effect) on the wetland" will have an ef-fect on the ecology.

Mr. Steele says they will be able to "re-channel un-contaminated water back into the wetlands (and) maintain the habitat quality and terrestrial aquatic habi-

"Overall, in balance, we strongly recommend Otonabee, Mindyou, the site that would be considered second would be As-phodel," Mr. Steele said.

"I would be remiss to say that there are obviously some features it does have an impact on." he said. "There are ways we can mitigate these impacts through design, traffic control and ways we feel deal

Tyke Colts finally nip Trenton

All year long Canadian LireColt Tykes saw the final usually in favour of the Frenton Tornados

That trend changed last Saturday. The Colts cruised to a 1-0 victory after losing invovertime to the Fornados in a recent Stirling tourna-

The Tire kids vowed to learn from that defeat and did. Ethan McMillan and cohorts one-timed a goal four minutes into the game and it stood up as the Colts prevailed. The line of McMillan, Zach Blake and Michael Barnum played tictac-toe and that was all they needed.

The Colts killed two shorthanded situations to one for the formados and saw sharp defensive efforts from eve ryone to help the cause. Matt. Csenar, was out standing in goal; stopping at least four breakaways. Sty-mied at the blueline and losine battles in the neutral zone seemed to confuse the Colts at times but they refused to buckle.

Coach 1 im Blake admitted the work of the team overall had improved from two recent outings, the latest a loss to Tweed.

Visiting rinks continue to dominate the Campbellford Chrysler Masters bonspiel for curlers over 65 years of age

An Oshawa Curling Club foursome, skipped by Florian Tomalak emerged the overall winner with 37 and a half points in the two draw event March 4th at the Campbellford Curling Club.

That was two points in front of the second-place DeBois rink from Lindsay. Third place went to Don Moorby and his Peterborough curlers who accumulated 33 points

Campbellford Chrysler sales rep Tom Wallace made the presentations of com-pany crested duffle bags and ackets to winning squads

Other members of the winning Tomalak rink in-cluded Frank Deak, Merv Babier and Al Stacey

Sixteen rinks participated including four Campbellford rinks. Tom Smith's rink emerged with the best local points total. They placed second in the total of 3 Other men included Pe White and F

Rebels now try to advance along OHA C playoff trail

By Rolly Ethier

It's called March madness-the annual battle for the national college basketball championship in the U.S. In Canada, however, bas ketball doesn't quite get the same deferential treatment as our friends give it south of the border but hockey playoff action is the Canadian equivalent.

And while the Ontario

Hockey Association's showdown for the provincial junchampionship may not qualify for the same prestige spotlight as college basketball, it does stir the hearts of the fans in those small bockey communities still in the race

One of those teams still in running Campbellford Rebels, who have thrilled local fans by marching to the Empire B Junior Hockey League crown for the second year in

Last year the Rebels playoff aspirations were short-lived as they were bounced out in a three-game sweep at the hands of the Lakefield Chiefs in the OHA quarter-finals. This year, with the series opening last night on Campbellfordice, the Rebels square off against Little Britain Merchants, who de-throned the Chiefs for the Central Ontario junior C crown. The Little Britain squad has been the cream of the Central crop all season; having finished in first place with a record of 27 victories. eight losses and five ties.

In comparison, leagueleading Picton Pirates led the way in the Empire League with a record of 26 victories, six losses and four ties, but then suffered an upset elimination at the hands of the Napanee Raiders in the semi-finals.

Seven Game Series

That bitterly-fought round went the full seven games with the Raiders coming back to win the final two games by 4-3 and 5-3 margins after trailing the best-of-seven round 3-2 in games.

Of course, the Rebels will know what to expect from the Merchants because the interlocking schedule employed between the Empire and Central Ontario teams have allowed for home-andhome meetings during the regular season.

By winning the Empire championship again the Rebelsautomatically qualify as one of the best eight of nine surviving junior C teams in the province but the Campbellfordcoachingstaff would like to improve on that record. Still in contention besides the Rebels and Merchants, are the Bradford Bulls, Georgian Bay/Mid-Ontario champs; Kincardine, the Western C champions; and the Niagara and Great Lakes standard-bearers.

Kincardine eliminated Hanover 4-0 in the western final while Bradford knocked out Penetang with a similar 4-0 sweep to capture the Georgian Bay crown. At mid-week, Wallaceburg held a 3-1 lead over Belle River in the Great Lakes playoffs, with the winner advancing to the final against Essex.

After ousting the Raiders in the minimum four games, Rebels earned a 10-day lay off but whether the rest will be beneficial or cause some rust to set in is a question that has to be determined-The Rebel coaching staff has high hopes the team will be up for the challenge of avenging last year's defeat at the nds of the Central Ontario champions.

Madoc Minor Hockey Report

Another close game for our Atom A's on the 6th in Hastings and District best three out of five (six points) playdown action with Mar-mora. Our Wildcats posted the only goal of the first period, scored by Logan Cassidy with assists from Josh Moore and Tanner Alford: Second period action saw the Stars come alive with a goal five minutes into play. but Josh Moore answered back for the home team to regain our lead with an assist from Logan Cassidy with 3:40 left in the second. Marmora came out strong in the third with a tying goal with a little better than three minutes away and went on to take a 3 - 2 lead at the 9:04 mark. Brennan Vezina rallied our Wildcats with a goal two and a half minutes left in regulation play to tie the match at three all. Tanner Alford and Shawn Trotter assisted on Brennan's goal. This match put the series at four points each.

Rounding out their season with exhibition matches our Bantams fared better with Trenton's B team on the 6th with John Cranston posting a shutout. TJ Tomlinson posted two goals while Mike McCann.
Mike Leaver, Thomas
Nickle and Brandon
McLean netted singles. Derrick Blackburn picked up three assists, two each for Duke Cassidy, Mike Leaver, Brandon McLean and Jesse Cassidy and a single for Thomas Nickle in this 6 - 0 win.
Our Tykes hosted

Havelock on the 7th, falling 10 - 2 to the visitors, Andy Moore scored both Wildcat goals, one unassisted, the other assisted by Jarrod Moore. An overtime heart-breaker for our Novices following the Tykes, as they hosted Colborne in Hast-ings and District round robin play. Madoc dominated first period action with a pair of unanswered goals scored by Jarrod Cassidy and Rob Blakely. Cody Chambers and Rob assisted on Jarrod's goal and Byron Chamberlain assisted on Chamberlain assisted on Rob's. Colbornechallenged our 2 - 0 lead by posting three goals to Madoc's one in second period play. Jarrod-Cassidy scored for our Novices in the second on an assist from Rob Plakely. One goal for each Blakely. One goal for each side in the third, Madoc's goal was scored by Rob Blakely, assisted by Cody Chambers and Jarrod, to finish regulation in a four all tie. It took seven minutes of overtime to break the tie. and it broke in Colborne's favour, ending the match in a 5-4 loss for our Wildcats.

On March 8 our Jun-ior Tykes travelled to Havelock coming through in style posting an 11 - 4 win over the Hawks. Scott Robinson posted five goals, a hattrick for Jamie Franks. a pair for Jordan Ashley and a single for Cody Higgins. Devon Dafoe. Stephanie Halliday. Greg McCullough all picked up assists. Congratulations to our smallest Wildcats for their big win!

Continuing in Hast ings and District playdowns, our Peewees hosted Otonabee on March 9. shutting down the opposition.7 - 3. Justin Cassidy and Tyler Gordon chalked up two goals each, while Jim Meraw, Mark Boyle and Luke Burnside posted sin-gles. Dean Wehring and Mark Boyle recorded two assists each with singles from Luke Burnside, Tyler Gordon, Rob Reynolds, Justin Cassidy and Greg

Back to back Atom games on the 10th starting off with the Atom B's, as they hosted Frankford in local league playdowns. Our Wildcats came through with a big 7 % I win over the Huskies, Mike McCullough had an outstanding game recording five goals for the home team! Singles were netted by Travis Gordon Darby, Smith and Will Dawes. Will, Darby and Chad Stein picked up as-

Our Atofn A's met Marmora in game six of their six point Hastings and District playdowns following the B's. Two scoreless eriods were followed with a Marmora goal at the 13:43 mark of the third. Brennan Vezina answered back for our Wildcats two minutes and ten seconds later with an assist from Shawn Trotter. Our Wildcats took over the lead with a goal by Shawn Trotter assisted by Jonathan McConnell and Brennan Vezma at the 10:10 mark. The Stars answered back less than a minute later with a goal to tie things up at two all. As had been the case throughout this series, the teams were tied at the end of regulation and a ten minute overtime period was ordered to end the series on the 10th. Five and a half minutes into overtime Mar mora snuck in the winner.' Congratulations A's on a fine Hastings and District series, you sure know how to make it exciting Vired of there's SIN people showed up at the Mades kiwatis Club on March 18 to become better informed about the 911 system that will soon be up and running in the Quinte area.

Doug Crosbie and Diane Godbout explained to the small crowd how the system will operate and what area residents should know and do to help the system run as smoothly as possible.

"We are very anxious to make this a success." Croshie told the crowd. The system, which has been in planning for nearly ten years, will start running on April 29.

The system will cost each household an extra thirty-two cents on their phonebill every month for every line they have in the house. It will also cost taxpayers roughly one dollar per year for the system.

Welcome to 'How to Deal with Rude People I don't care who you are what you are or where you're from you will always end up running into someone who is rude. Why people are rude is a ques-tion I've always asked. People may be rude because they're having a bad day or because they're simply rude people. Anyway, there no excuse for rudeness. there is Now, personally speaking. I've had a number of run-ins with rude people and 1 still never know how to deal with them. Do you treat them the way they'retreating you? Do you sink to their level or do you siniply grin and bear it? Some people will lash out at you and try to make you teel less than them. Well, pardon me, but I think we're all equal and, more impor tantly, all human and tend to make mistakes or forget things. It's true that some people have bad days and sill take it out on other peo ple but try to remember that we are all human.

How many times have you been in a store and be rude to the cashier that happens When wouldn't you like to simply slap that person on the side of the head and tell them to smarten up? I know I do. Yet, you certainly have been rude to someone before, haven't vou? Oh sure we can all shake our heads and say no but we all have at one point. I have and I always feel bad about it afterwards. I'll admit there are times I've been rude to people simply because it seems that's the only way some-thing will be done: For example, at a certain bank I used to deal with I had to be rude because they continuously messed around with my account until I didn't know if I was poor or rich. I didn't want to be rude but it did the job and they fi-nally straightened things out for me. At times, being rude can be used as a means of manipulation.

Let's turn the tables around and look at it from another viewpoint. If some-one's rude to you what do you do? I try to simply take it with a grain of salt al-

For the past three weeks or so two representatives from El Salvador's National Association of Agricultural Workers (ANTA) have been sampling life in Canada, and enjoying the hospitality of

During their stay, Ana Maria Calles and Teodoro Ardon couldn't have helped but notice that the freedoms that are simply taken for granted in Canada are in stark contrast to the ongoing battle for survival in their own country.

El Salvador is one of many other Central American countries where social justice remains an elusive dream and where their history is marred by the shackles imposed on the poor peo-ple by a series of military and civilian juntas that held power.

Guests at the Warkworth area home of Jim Orr and his family March 13th, Ana his family March 13th, Ana Maria and Teodoro, along with translator Lisa Kowalchukof York Univer-sity and Dr. Bob Sheppard of the Cobourg-based Hori-zons of Friendship, enjoyed atraditional farm lunch. The atraditional farmfunch. The menu consisted of ham, baked beans, scalloped po-tatoes, vegetables and topped off with a wonderful strawberry shortcake.

While the food was su-perb and plentiful, the simperb and pientiful, the sim-ple gesture of friendship by Brenda Orr, Jim's wife, in presenting a doll to Ana Maria to take home to El Salvador for her own threeyear-old daughter provided the most poignant moment of the visit.

The way the El Salvadorean woman clutched the doll ever so tightly, it was obvious that she was touched by the gesture and it was also quite obvious that like any other mother she missed her child

Later, Mrs. Calles and Mr. Ardon were taken on a tour of the Sandy Flats Sugar Bush, home of the annual Warkworth Maple Syrup Festival, where they witnessed for the first time the Asserting of the solden harvesting of the golden elixir that is so traditionally retanatof Finances in ANTA she continues to be tirelessly dedicated to addressing the needs and concerns of peas-unts at the grassroots level. The 47-year-old Ardon has participated in the strugfor social justice since before the country's civil war. He has continued to fight for equality despite the repression and bloodshed that plagued his own northeast region of the country.

Reform Leader

During the war he worked in Chalatenango and Cabanas to reactivate the peasant movement that had been crushed or dispersed at the outset of the armed conflict. Today Teodoro is ANTA's National Secre-tariat of Communications and also works as a promoter of co-operative action in several communities.

ANTA struggles on behalf of the inclusion of the poor rural majority for their share of the benefits of socioeconomic development in El Salvador, It represents the landless and landpoor day labourers together in their nursuit of the benefits of the various land transfer programs. ANTA also continues to be a fierce proponent of dignified rural wages and working conditions and plays a pivotal role in the ongoing struggle for the implementation of the unfinished Agrarian Reform.

It is a member of a broad peasantalliance demanding the cancellation of an unjust and unpayable land debt that has spelled economic stagnation for thousands of rural producers.

Objectives of the visitors to Canada include promoting an awareness here of the present rural realities in El-Salvador, and to establish permanent channels for the mutual exchange of infor-

The initiative also seeks to promote a nucleus of Canadians who can lobby their government as well as the El Salvadorian government in support of policy proposals of ANTA and other peasant organizations. It hopes Canada can main-tain vigilant solidarity with El Salvador in demanding that the Salvadorean state respect and promote peasants' socio-economic, political and civil rights.

Not only has Lisa Kowalchuk servedas anable translator for the ANTA lead ers during their (rip to Canada, she has helped organize the itinerary. She is well qualified for the task after living in El Salvador for two years.

Political Unrest

Some understanding of the deeply troubled political history of El Salvador is required to appreciate the difficult task faced by reform-ers such as Ana Maria and Alfredo Cristiani of the right-wing Nationalist Re-publican Alliance won a majority in the 1989 election, defeating Jose Napo-leon Duarte for the presi-dency. In 1991, with UN mediation, Cristiani and rebel leaders agreed on a framework for peace and a treaty was signed in 1992, ending a

The average Canadian consumer spends more than $700 per yearson car maintenance. By practicing regular maintenance, you can reduce that amount and prolong the life of your vehicle.

Rule No.1 for finding a good mechanic/technician: don't wait until you're desperate for help.

Finding an automotive-service technician you trust is like finding a doctor or a minister—you need to build a relationship based on trust and mutual respect. These things don't happen overnight.

Most of the business for a repair garage is from referrals. The only way to get referral business is from satisfied customers. So if you're looking for a new automotive-service technician, ask around.

Ask your friends, relatives, business associ-ates, church members anyone you can think of. You'll probably get a more reliable feel for who is good and who is not by getting several opinions rather than just one service technicians have the credentials to prove their competence in a variety of automotive sectors and specialties. If your automotive technicians have an ASE patch on their uni-forms, it means they passed a tough automotive test designed to evaluate whether or not their skills are up-to-date with the latest automotive repair techniques. # Pretrip inspection can help you avoid problems ruin that muchneeded spring holiday than to have our car suffer a mechanical failure along the way And as any competent me chanic will tell you, most roadside breakdowns could easily be avoided with a pre-trip inspection. Even well cared for vehicles should be given a quick

The first item to be checked should be the vehi-cles' tires. As well as post-poning your fun, a blowout at high-speed can undanger you and your loved ones. You can never be too careful about inspecting tread wear and tire pressure.

Tire pressure is the most obvious thing to check. but don't just rely on a visual check to see if they are no-ticeably flat. Although it takes as much as a 10-psi drop in pressure for a tire to be visibly soft, running even three psi lower than the tire manufacturer's specifica-tion can cause problems.

The only solution is to use a tire pressure gauge; this is one item no motorist should be without. The key point is to always check the car's tire pressures cold. The only time to do that is first thing in the morning, before setting out on your trip. Ofcourse, if you don't have your own pressure gauge, take the car to the nearest garage (so the tires don't heat up) to have them make the inspection. Warmed tires will give higher read-ings, so checking pressures after a day of hard driving will give incorrect readings The car's manual should give specific recommendations for tire pressure, but if no specifications are available, 32 psi is a safe number as a starting point.

While you're at it, check out the tires' tread life. To find out how worn the tires are, move the vehicle until the wear bars on each tire's tread is visible These are rubber bars that run between the tire's treads and are slightly recessed. If a tire's tread is the same height as the wear bar, it definitely needs replacing. Not only is there a far greater possibility of a blow-out with worn tires, but the lack of depth means there's a greater chance, of hydroplaning, or complete loss of traction, on roads

Another common problem, usually associated with older tires, is sidewall cracking. As tires get old, they dry and, with constant flexing, the sidewalls crack To be on the safe side, any tire with sidewall cracks should be replaced. In fact, tire manufacturers recommend replacing tires every five years.

Probably, the nextmost important area to check is the vehicle's cooling system. Overheating is one of the more common causes of breakdown. First, the upper and lower rad hoses should be checked for

Like tires, the rubber hoses on your vehicle age. dry and crack. Squeeze each hose. They should be firm to the touch. Soft hoses are an indication that they're old and should be replaced.

One of the two areas that most of us can't check is the condition of the radiator and its antifreeze. Your local mechanic can pressu-rize the radiator to check its condition. At the same time have the condition of the antifreeze checked. A good rule of thumb is to change or recycle the antifreeze every two or three years. Most people simply ignore their car's coolant sched-uled maintenance, so having a mechanic give it the once-over is a good idea.

If you plan to tow a trailer, a good investment would be a trip to the transmission shop. Like your engine, the transmission needs to have its fluids changed on a regular basis. With transmission repairs usually running in the thou-sands, a $100 inspection and fluid change is cheap insurance

As heat is the biggest enemy of automatic trans-missions, a transmission cooler might be a wise in-vestment for anyone tow-

One drawback here is that fegreasing an engine can leave quite a mess under the vehicle and can contami-nate the body of water at the end of your particular sewer system A good alternative is to take your mess to the coin-operated arwash. The standard highpressure hose, coupled with ourtename degreaser, will do a good job, plus many com-ops now have an engine degreasing mode just for this purpose. Still another alternative is to turn the car over to a professional detailer to steam clean the engine. If ou re looking åt a thick have of caked-on grease this option will not only save you work, but also avoid leaving a memorable mess in your wake

It's preferable to clean the engine while it's cold to avoid the possibility of burning yourself on hot parts, although if it has a lot of caked-on grunge, you may want to warm it up for a few minutes to help the degreaser do its job.

tant. You don't want water getting into places it doesn't belong. For engines with either a carburetor or throttle-body fuel-injector system, remove the air cleaner and slip a thick-ply plastic hag (like a food storage bag) over the carb or throttlebody opening. Secure it with tape so no water can seep through. On cars with multipoint. fuel injection(most late model vehicles), tape plastic over the air intake opening. Do the same with the distributor, it so equipped, as well as any other major electricar components or obvious energies. It you need to remove or disconnect any wires or hoses. Tirst label them with a piece of tape and waterproof marker so you remember where they go. Don't forget to plug any openings in the hose connections

While wearing eye protection, spray the degreaser liberally onto the engine, firewall, inner fenders, and the underside of the hood (unless insulation is attached), being careful not to overspray onto your car's paint. Allow the degreaser to set for the period of time prescribed on the label, usually 5 to 10 minutes. If necessary, use a brush to work it into heavy deposits. A toothbrush works well for tight places. Next rinse the degreaser off with a hose. again being mindful of the car's finish. A high-pressure spray attachment willdothe best job. Avoid spraying the war with plast MI

The Lions and lambs of March

By Louisa Jones

The old wives tale tells us "If March comes in like a lion, then it goes out like a lamb" and that the recipro-cal is true. Those people I have spoken to believe that February of 1998 was a lamb, but Mar. First -- St. David's Day -- was a bit of a lion with all the snow we woke up to. As one optimistic person put it, "The temperature was still above freezing!"

But what exactly the old wives tale meant when they made up this tale is any-one's guess. Let's look at

Now lions are interesting critters. They live in a hot, arid country on the other side of the ocean. How they truly know anything about what our weather is going to be like is beyond me. According to those who know, it is the female of the species who does the majority of the hunting. It is the female who is responsi-ble for feeding the pride, raising the cubs and decid-ing who is the best mate.

In other words, the females are the ones who dis-play both aggressive and nóurishing behaviour.

Lambs are gentle, soft animals. They live right here in Canada and maybe they know something we don't. They are small, cud-dly and cute like any baby. They have been known to follow "Mary" to school even "though it was against the rule." They are usually born in late February or March. They may be gentle but they can also be naughty and stubborn.

Marchitself has provided wonderful skating parties and it has also turned the rink into a pond. It has left us with either mud or snow up to our hips. March produces longer days in which to watch tulips sprout or snow melt or the worst blizzards in remembered his-

Monday nighters bring season to rousing close

By Art Sels

Hastings - The Monday Night Norwood Bowling family know how to finish the season with tremendous action and a line of bowling

Results from action between the gutters at Dodd's Lanes ip Hastings on Mar. 16 made the following bowlers come up with a terrific finish

Art Sels finished the season with a thrilling star performance burning up the alleys in the high triple race with a score of 639 followed by Phil Rusaw with 590; Ellwood Sweeting with 550; Mel MacDonald with 547; Nancy Lowes with 541; Bernie Heffernan with 528; Pat Thiele with 526; Linda Bennett with 515; Fran Heffernan with 511; Paul Snider with 475; Helen Nelson and Ewald Thiele shared 472 scores; Helen Wilford with 463; Ozzie

Nelson with 462; Donna Wilford with 447; Isabella Sels with 436; Doris Snider with 422; Carol MacDonald with 420; Lisa Bump with 410 and Verda Rusaw with her 397. Remember, April 1st is the "Stars and Oscars" night. It will be an evening to recognize the champions and the stars.

I wish you all a nice summer vacation and don't forget the 1998-99 bowling season starts this Septem ber. Looking forward to seeing you all again.

I also would like to thank Bill Freeman and Audrey Carl of The Norwood Register for the terrific job they have done as being part of the extended Norwood bowling family.

School boards could be in trouble

by Catherine Reynolds

Kingston School boards across the province could find themselves in erious financial trouble if the provincial government prolongs the release of the funding model they are to operate on.

Barry O'Connor, direc-tor of eduction for the Limestone District School Board (the new name for District Board 27 or Lennox Addington Frontenac amalgamated boards), informed trustees last week that the province's two month de lay in releasing the model is 'totally unacceptable.''

According to O'Connor, everything is tied to the fund-ing model ie: teachers' collective agreements, so leavit to the last minute makes it difficult to make changes. Included in the teachers' collective agreements are dates which have to be ad-hered to when making changes to employment status. O'Connor said this is More Abled Than Disabled just another example of people not understanding what takes place in the education system.

When the funding model arrives, the director anticipates some lay-offs but doesn't expect to be hit as hard as Toronto or Ottawa. We'll have to live with what we're given, he noted, and if we're given less than what we have now, then we'll have to make some changes

A key date for the sec-ondary and elementary school principals and vice-principals is April 1st. The funding model is expected to arrive on March 25, giving staff just six days to grapple with an estimated 225 line formula.

O'Connor says the province projected a more sim-pler funding model with six or seven type of grants com-pared to the former complicated mode which included 35 types of grants.

All former township of Asphodel roads will be numbered form a starting point at the southwest boundary of the former township. Likewise, all former Norwood roads will be numbered beginning within the village and ending at the former village's

Number plates, similar to those seen in current 911 areas like Hastings, will soon be ready for installa-

"It is really important that we apply the same ration-ale. To have alternate numbering north and south would be ridiculous," said Cathy Deputy-reeve Turner.

Mrs. Christie says Dummer Township will take up the numbering on County Rd. 40 at the boundary line and carry them on north. With Council giving the by-law its first two readings Monday evening, the municipality can now meet Bell Telephone's Mar. 31 deadline for submission.

They have been assured that if any changes have to be made Bell can accommodate any modifications that might crop up.

Mrs. Christic said they were "amazed" at how co-operative residents had been in helping them with establishing road names, particu-larly in the township where public input was extensively Bill Kanis, a resident of the newly-named Drysdale Road near Hastings, praised the work of the 911 team.

"The residents of Drysdale Road have been in discussion with Cathy and they've listened to us," Mr. Kanis said.

"We're very happy with what they've done," he said, adding that he wanted to "express his appreciation" on behalf of residents in that area near River Road northeast of Hastings.

A full Township map is posted in the municipal of-fice identifying all of the roads now named in the 911

This of course made it difficult to compare bids. I told some of the contractors the difficulty in this whole thing was to separate the BS from the truth. However, both Al and another contractor did say that we did not need to install an electronic air filter and I found out the reason is that because old houses are very leaky and if windows are opened it would; not effectively rid the air of particles. That will save us close to a thousand dollars. Some contractors said we had to build a new chimney. Some said we could use the old chimney if we inserted a steel liner.

Some had us move the oil tank and water heater to a new location. Some did not.

Death came to our neighbourhood once again when a good friend of the family was struck down by a hit and run driver and left to drown in a ditch. Chelsea took her daily walks and often accompanied our neighbour Brian Brownson and others on theirs. Chelsea was a social butterfly and liked to spend time with various members of the neighbourhood often dropping in for a snack and some quality time. Her cheery disposition and affectionate nature will be sadly missed by her family the Veermans and all who knew her. Chelsea was buried in the woods she loved so much. The fact that Chelsea was a dog will in no way diminish our grief.

Our furnace has fi-nally bit the dust after 23 years of service. It was in-stalled by Al Treverton, Al has also done some plumb-ing work for us and did it well. He is quite a character and quite a raconteur. The first word I had down was curmudgeon. When my wife proofread this article she suggested I better look it up because she thought it might not be very nice. I did and the meaning was "a churlish and miserly man". Well that is definitely not Al. He is the only serviceman I have ever had to re-mind to give me a bill. There isn't much he doesn't know about plumbing and the goings on in the area. Sometimes we feel like inventing a plumbing problem just to have him come and hear his stories. His pet peeve is "stu-pid" people. He loves to tell about "stupid" people. These are people who did not follow his advice and as a result got themselves into a royal pickle. Since

Since we were spending nearly $5000 on installing a new oil burning water heater and a furnace, we decided to call in a lot of contractors and get as many written estimates as possible. Well, talk about confusing! Every contractor had something new to say about the job and they often contradicted themselves. As well, they were less than

Correction

In the February 28 issue of The Review a story and photos were run on the CHSS Coffeehouse hosted at MacKenzie Mills Cafe. Unfortunately, the owner of the cafe had her name misspelled. The owner, Tammy Tenbult, pointed the error out to me and I forgot torun the correction. Unfortunately it is not our policy to rerun the story. My apologies to Ms. Tenbult.

and the highest bidder for comparable work. All did recommend that we have the ducts cleaned before installation. That will add about $300 to the total cost. We also found out from Russ Perkins at Culligans in Belleville thatour water softener was installed in 1989 and it could be restored to new efficiency for a flat rate of $120. For this they clean out the brine tank and take the reactor tank back to the store where they clean out the tiny beads so they can efficiently react with the calcium and magnesium compounds that make the water hard. We decided not to put the metered package on it since it was an additional $275. We can buy a lot of years electricity for that amount. I recommend that if you are buying a water conditioner talk to him first before you talk to a hungry

Incidentally, if you are disabled or a semor citizen who finds lugging around that salt difficult. there is a company in Burlington which sells an electromagnetic 'device which wraps around the pipes and changes the ionic nature of the compounds in water, making it soft. It is made in Britain and has been on the European market for, six years. It is only about $500 or $600 for a unit and has a money back guarantee. The advantage is that it uses no salt, takes up little, space, and uses only $12 of space, and uses only $12 of electricity per year. The dis-advantages are that it is only 70 per cent efficient and if you go away for a week the water in your tank loses its softness. I have some literature if anyone is inter-
